VMI turns focus to marketing, hears reports on festivals

BY BOB DEMAREE

With a contract finally agreed upon between the Jefferson County Board of Tourism, Visit Madison Inc. has its operations funded through the end of March of 2022.

At Monday morning's VMI meeting, the board turned its attention to marketing funding, which still must be determined by JCBT, which is requiring a strategic plan from VMI.

Board members encouraged Sarah Prasil, VMI's executive marketing director, to focus on the strategic aspects of the plan that will guide the spending rather than delve too deeply into the specific ways money will be spent.

"Even when you have a plan, it always changes," said board member Hannah Fagen, noting that changing circumstances impact how every strategic plan is executed.

Prasil said not having the marketing fund issue settled has put the agency "way behind" with the county's marketing due to the lack of funding. She said for now she is continuing to plan ahead as best she can.

Prasil said $42,706.64 has been paid out for expenses with $25,781.64 in pending payments for a total of $68,488.28.

VMI's staff currently includes Prasil and Tiffini Poling, the office manager. Additionally, Erin Kindle is working as coordinator of Ribberfest. With operations funding now in place, interviews are being conducted to fill staff vacancies and VMI board president Lucy Dattilo is hopeful that the new staff will be on board in the next week.

In other business, the board:

• Heard an update from Kara Hinze on the Madison Chautauqua Festival of Art. She said 94 artists have confirmed attendance with 70 more still needing to respond for the event scheduled for Sept. 25-26. If all respond, a total of 164 artists will be confirmed for the event, which Hinze said is short of the target number of 200.

According to Hinze, COVID-19 is a factor in the decreased number. "There are spring festivals that were delayed to the fall" that Hinze said are in conflict with the Chautauqua, while others are apprehensive because of the recent increase in COVID-19 cases. "Hopefully, next year will be better," she said, adding that one benefit of having fewer artists is "we might be able to spread them out more because of COVID."

Hinze also reminded that with this being the 50th anniversary Chautauqua that they are discussing adding music to the weekend that would take place from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. after the Chautauqua

City asks for county support on water, flood mitigation projects

Projects would impact all of Jefferson County

BY BOB DEMAREE

The City of Madison on Friday asked Jefferson County Commissioners to contribute $2.5 million to the city's proposed drinking water infrastructure improvement project and a comprehensive plan for mitigation of flash flooding.

The city is seeking the funding from the county's share of American Rescue Act funds with $150,000 going toward the storm water mitigation study and the remainder toward long overdue improvements to the drinking water system that serves Madison and a good portion of the county that buys its water from the city.

The comprehensive storm water plan would be conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers to evaluate causes of flooding and develop strategies to create future storm-water infrastructure to mitigate disasters such as what occurred June 18 in downtown Madison and other areas of the city and county at an expected cost of $425,000.

The drinking water infrastructure improvement project would include tank improvements and replacement of miles of new water lines at an estimated cost of approximately $15 million to complete.

No decisions were made by the County Commissioners on Friday but they generally supported the proposals.

The city is also seeking funding for the drinking water project through the Indiana Finance Authority (IFA) in the form of a State Water Infrastructure Fund (SWIF) grant in the amount of $5 million and would like the county to commit funds to help

Public notices provide judicial transparency

Court-required public notices are valuable tools of our democracy because they provide due process to Americans who will be impacted by the government action and help make the judicial process more transparent.

The publication of notices doesn't guarantee that the targeted individual will see the notice, but it's the best good faith effort to let someone know their life is about to be impacted if they do not respond when normal service of notice can't be done.

The Indiana Supreme Court though is considering a rule change that will effectively curtail such notice. The proposed change to Trial Rule 4.13 would allow an attorney to place such a notice on a website controlled by the Supreme Court rather than publish the notice in a local newspaper.

These notices could concern the sale of property through a mortgage foreclosure, the changing of the name of one's child, the opening of the administration of an estate, or a general notice of the filing of a lawsuit where the defendant hasn't been informed.

Newspapers have been where Hoosiers know to look for information about their community since before Indiana was a state. Then territorial Governor William Henry Harrison enticed Elihu Stout to transport a press by boat and ox cart to Vincennes for the sole purpose of creating a newspaper so that government notices could be published and disseminated to the public.

HOW TO COMMENT

Hoosiers concerned about the Indiana Supreme Court's proposed rule change or who support this proposal can submit comments to the Court. The deadline for submission of comments is 1 p.m. Tuesday, Aug.10. Comments may be submitted to: https://www.in.gov/courts/publications/proposed-rules/july-2021/.

Written comments also may be mailed to:

Jennifer Bauer
Indiana Office of Court Services
251 N. Illinois St., Suite 800
Indianapolis, IN 46204

The proposed changes to the policy can be found at : https://www.in.gov/courts/files/rules-proposed-2021-jul-trial.pdf.

It's illogical to expect Hoosiers to routinely log onto the Indiana Supreme Court website to determine whether there's a court action that impacts them, their businesses, other family members or friends. The chances they learn of such court action from the newspaper is much greater — either by seeing it themselves or learning from someone else who read it in the paper.

Effectively moving the notices from newspapers to a state website will reduce the opportunities for such notices to be seen by Hoosiers. The Indiana Supreme Court should be looking at ways to expand the reach of public notices, not constrict that reach.

Cost of publication has been the only factor mentioned as a rationale for this proposal. Prior to the release of this proposal, the Hoosier State Press Association already had committed to proposing a modernization of the state's Legal Advertising and Publication of Legal Notices statute (I.C. 5-3-1) to the state legislature. That proposal will include revision of the current pricing for notices of sheriff's sale (mortgage foreclosure), the opening of administration of an estate, a petition to change a name, and summons or notice of lawsuit that will reduce the present average cost.

Data collected thus far raises a question as to whether cost is a valid concern for effective justice. HSPA information collected from 60 newspapers shows the average cost for printing public notices for estate administration to be $101, for summons to be $186, for change of name to be $126.

The cost of public notice when plaintiffs or interested parties can't be identified, is a small price for due process, when one takes into account the hourly rate for an attorney generally ranges from $100 to $300 an hour. The court filing fees and notice by a sheriff can generally range from $160 to $270.

HSPA also questions the need for tax dollars to be spent creating a special website for court-related public notices, when HSPA already has a website that aggregates public notices (indianapublicnotices.com).

HSPA also has committed to restricting the costs associated with giving public notice for plaintiffs who are indigent and has attempted to get language passed on that issue in the last two legislative sessions, working with two organizations that provide free legal service to the disadvantaged.

Indiana newspapers, through the Hoosier State Press Association, want to work with the Indiana Supreme Court to improve the public notice process. We suggest the utilization of court-approved templates to aid in the proper terminology for pro se litigants to publish notices and require newspapers to upload publish/posted notices to the state's MyCase docketing program so that attorneys are informed when notices have properly been given or help an attorney flag when an error occurs that needs to be rectified to prevent legal delays or lack of due process.

HSPA acknowledges newspapers benefit financially through the publication of public notices as does any business that serves government and private-party clients and a move from newspaper publication to government website posting would reduce much-needed revenue as Indiana's newspaper industry recovers from the pandemic. Thirteen Indiana newspapers closed their doors during the last 16 months.

It would be ironic if the Indiana Supreme Court inadvertently pushed additional newspapers into insolvency because the two institutions have a symbiotic relationship. The courts derive their power through public support of the judicial process. When the process or a judge is attacked, it is the news media that informs Hoosiers of an unwarranted attack on the integrity of the judiciary. It is the local newspaper that covers court cases within the county, which reinforces the importance of the rule of law in a democracy. Conversely, it's the judicial process that helps preserve the First Amendment and newspapers' right to gather news, protecting the press from government interference.

The Hoosier State Press Association will urge the Indiana Supreme Court change this proposal from an either newspaper publication or court website posting choice to a newspaper distributed and court website posted public notice process that preserves the four essential elements to effective notice: Accessibility of notices for the public; Verification that notices were properly published/posted; Archiving of the notices for legal and historical purposes; and an Independent distribution system to ensure the system isn't corrupted.

Stephen Key is executive director and general counsel for the Hoosier State Press association, which represents Indiana' paid-circulation newspapers.

Rob Bellucci, project manager for Commonwealth Engineers, said applications for an SWIF grant "is extremely competitive," with the IFA fielding 700 applications for $300 million to $400 million this cycle with a decision expected in August.

"We're a small piece of that," Bellucci said, adding that the scoring criteria favors projects with local match money and regionalization which he said the city's SWIF application should score well on since the city supplies water to nearly two-thirds of Jefferson County including customers in Madison as well as the Dupont, Canaan and Rykers' Ridge water companies. He said there is also a strong need since the city's six storage facilities need significant upgrades as well as the sewer treatment facilities.

"If we can let the state know that we have the county's backing and support in this effort, it will go a long way in our scoring to get additional grant money as well," Bellucci added.

He said the project involves a 20-year plan to not only address current needs but issues that might arise in the future.

"It's exciting for sure," Bellucci said. "No one likes to jump into a large infrastructure project like this, but you don't have a choice."

Madison Deputy Mayor Mindy McGee said if the grant application is rejected, the city will have to look at alternative ways to fund the project and that could mean passing more of the costs to customers in the form of higher water rates for residents of the city and county who use Madison water.

"It's something we have to do," she said, noting they are working to "do everything we can do to mitigate debt."

Bellucci agreed, "The more grant money we can get, the less the burden on everybody, not just the city, but the county people who rely on the city's water utility."

Commissioner Bobby Little said he's aware that the project needs to be done. "I'm on Rykers' Ridge water, and we still have the old cast pipe in the ground. We need to look at doing ours, too, later on down the road."

Brian Jackson, Utility Manager for the City of Madison, said that in addition to providing water for Dupont, Canaan and Rykers' Ridge, the city has a reciprocal agreement with Kent Water Company. "When they need water, we give it to them, and when we need water, they give it to us. Just last week, they had an electrical outage and we gave water to Kent. We pretty much help the whole county if they need it."

Jackson said the more Madison receives in grant money, the better the city will be able to keep water rates down for all residents of the county and having local support now could save users money later. He said if Madison receives no grant money for the drinking water infrastructure plan that the basic rate for Rykers' Ridge will increase $52,000 per year, $100,000 for Canaan and $74,000 for Dupont which then would have to be passed on to customers.

"We do feel this truly is a county-wide issue and project," McGee said, adding the city is part of the county.

County Surveyor Mike Pittman noted the county is seeing substantial growth. "We have an additional half-million to a million dollars building in residential. There is a definite need for people."

Commissioners President David Bramer said the county would support the water project but needed time to evaluate and consider what that support would involve.

With the grant application pending, McGee and Bellucci both pressed on when that decision would be made.

Bramer indicated the county would announce its decision at an upcoming meeting and did not rule out a special meeting.

McGee also pointed out that the June 18 flash flooding not only impacted the North Walnut residents but it also resulted in flooding on "Wilson Avenue and homes on the hilltop."

Little agreed, adding that it impacted county residents off of Crooked Creek and U.S. 421, along with county highways in which Crooked Creek runs alongside.

In other business, the Commissioners:

• Heard a report from Bramer that the county is participating with Our Southern Indiana Regional Development Authority in developing regional projects to compete for part of the $500 million Regional Economic Acceleration and Development Initiative (READI) in which up to $50 million could be awarded to a region. Among the efforts are the possible development of an airport at the former Jefferson Proving Ground that might be used as a hub for air freight, infrastructure improvements in the southwest portion of Jefferson County connecting with the northeast area of Clark County and the southeast part of Scott County, and a collaboration with city on the Ohio Theatre.

Steve Meyer, who represents Scott County on OurSIRDA, said the region has received 52 applications for projects totaling $200 million, and the board is in the process of reviewing them. Meyer noted that projects that may not fit into the region's plan through the READI process could still move forward. "Some of the things that are not accepted will be channeled to other state agencies," Meyer said.

• County Assessor Karen Mannix submitted bids for the four-year cyclical reassessment contract with Tyler Technologies being awarded the contract at $585,532. "There was just more to offer in the Tyler bid," said Mannix, particularly in hours toward any appeals that might be made. The other bid was offered Lexur Appraisal Services at $584,600.

• Awarded the bid for section corners to Pettit and Associates at $140 per hour for the field work and $80 per hour for the office work. State statute requires that a registered surveyor be used and Pettit and Associates is the only one in Jefferson County.

• Awarded a bid on the full-depth restoration of Interstate Block Road and County Road 450W to Specialties Company of Indianapolis for $279,522.50.

• Heard a request from Erin Thomas of LifeTime Resources for $20,000 funding in 2022. Thomas said the organization works to provide services that help people maintain their independence. Thomas said LifeTime's services to Jefferson County are valued at $1.2 million, and noted what the county contributes provides a match for other resources that the organization receives. Thomas noted the request for $20,000 is a significant jump from the $8,000 that the county awarded LifeTime for 2021, but noted there is a past history of greater amounts that were awarded and requested.

Forgive to reconnect with sons

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My wife and I have been married for four years. I have never been married before, and my wife, "Gertrude," was divorced when we married.

While dating, Gertrude told me about how her ex-husband would verbally abuse her and her child. But now Gertrude is treating me the same way she says she was treated by her ex, making the same types of comments and doing to me almost exactly what she told me he did to her, yelling and screaming for nothing.

I have mentioned to her several times that she is treating me exactly how she described her ex-husband treating her. I am getting extremely frustrated.

I love my wife and want our marriage to last. I have asked her to stop treating me in such a way, but it continues. Gertrude and her ex were married for 10 years, and we met two years after their divorce. I cook, clean, do yard work, work full-time and pay the bills — all the things she complained her ex never did. What advice can you give? — Extremely Frustrated

Dear Extremely Frustrated: Seek marriage counseling as soon as you can. If your wife refuses to go, then attend counseling alone. No one deserves to be verbally abused. It can be as damaging to your self-esteem and just overall sense of happiness as being physically abused.

When you tell her that she is treating you the same way her ex treated her, what does she say? If she agrees and says she wants to change, there is hope. If she gets defensive and blames you, then saving this marriage will be much harder. Both partners have to want to change their behavior and have mutual respect for each other. First, you must respect yourself enough to stop this behavior.

Dear Annie: I have three sons with whom I have no relationship. Two are drug addicts and alcoholics, and one is a narcissist. Their father was emotionally abusive, and after 22 years of marriage and much counseling, I finally divorced him.

My sons don't care about me, let alone love me. I have tried for the past 20 years, since the divorce, to have a close relationship, but to no avail. They just don't care. My heart has been broken in two over and over. My therapist agrees with me to let it go by not contacting them anymore since they never respond. It's so hard, but I'm trying. If I completely let go, I know I'll never ever hear from them again. — Should I Let Go for My Own Sanity?

Dear Should I Let Go: Your sons had a very turbulent childhood, and most likely, they love you but are just mad at you, their father and the entire situation. Hurt people hurt people, and it sounds like they are hurting with alcohol, drugs and narcissism. I'm not sure you can "let go" of your children, no matter how old they are. What you can do is work on your own anger, hurt and regret about what happened and heal from it.

The more you forgive yourself, your ex-husband and actions that your grown children have done by pushing you away, the more at peace you will be. The more you are at peace, the greater likelihood they will come back to you when they are ready and in need of support. If they don't come back, at least you will be living with more joy.

Dealing with depression

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I read your response to "Brokenhearted." She was hurting because her sister didn't believe her abuse. Depression is a process. My biggest hurdle in managing it was the belief that it was a flaw of mine. That there was something wrong with me. I read "The Body Keeps the Score." It was liberating. The book, in my perspective, was a work of correlating physical changes in the body as they related to mental changes. What a life-changer. I realized that the evolution of my depression was not my fault. I did pretty darn good, considering what I went through. I no longer allowed people's opinions to shape me. I arrived at a very empowered and healing place. I can't recommend the book enough. Good call. — the Body Keeps Score

Dear Body: Congratulations on your dedication to living a full and empowered life. Taking control of your mental and physical health is one of the greatest gifts you can give to yourself and the world.

Dear Annie: My ex-husband was very controlling and always had to have the upper hand in conversations. Today, we do all of our communicating through email only, but he still needs to end all correspondence on his terms.

We have been divorced for three years now, but he still thinks he can control me because we have a joint parenting plan, which is an entirely different subject.

But I have a fiance, and we are very happy together and planning our lives together. Both my girls, ages 10 and 8, love my fiance and are more comfortable with him than with their real dad.

During the past two years, my ex-husband has gotten in touch with my fiance's ex-wife and is coaching her on ways to get my fiance into legal trouble by calling the Department of Children and Family Services about him, making claims that are wrong. As of now, nothing has happened to him to get him into trouble with the law.

The reason we know that my ex is involved is because whenever my fiance's ex emails him, the wording of her emails is the same as the emails that my ex sends me. It also has been confirmed with both sets of children that they talk about us every night and are looking for ways to get my fiance into legal trouble.

We have no proof to take this to our lawyer, but it is getting stressful. Going to a lawyer and filing a case without proof is the last thing we want to do, especially when time, money and our children's well-being are at stake.

Can you help? — Desperate for Solutions

Dear Desperate: The best solution is to seek the advice of professional legal counsel. A good attorney will advise you on how to proceed and only file a complaint if there are reasonable grounds. Try as best you can not to get bogged down in petty little fights with your ex, and focus instead on living a good life. I agree that the guy sounds like a first-class louse, but always remember that the best revenge is living well.

David Campbell

Sherron Wilkerson has resigned as head boys basketball coach at Madison Consolidated High School. Wilkerson was 30-22 in two seasons with the school.

Wilkerson resigns after 2 years

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Sherron Wilkerson's tenure as head boys basketball coach at Madison Consolidated High School ended late Sunday evening when the coach announced his resignation in a meeting with players and coaches.

The former Jeffersonville and Indiana University star confirmed his decision with The Madison Courier later on Sunday saying that the unexpected decision came down to personal reasons.

"From a personal perspective, it came down to what I thought was best for me and my family," Wilkerson said. "Madison is an absolutely terrific place. It's a great community with great fans. I just felt like at this time that this was what was best for me."

Wilkerson took over for Mark McFarland at Madison two years ago after serving one year as coach at Shawe Memorial. He took the Cubs to two-straight sectional championship games, losing both times to powerhouse Silver Creek.

Overall, Wilkerson was 30-22 at Madison including a 17-win campaign this past season, which was the most wins the Cubs have posted since the 2006-07 season.

Wilkerson was proud of what he and his staff accomplished at Madison, especially considering the state of the program when he arrived.

"We had a long road when we came in. The program was in shambles to be frank about it," Wilkerson said. "And I think that we did a good job of building Madison back up to where we think it needs to be. The program is in great shape. The next coach is going to inherit a good team, a good feeder system and a team that won 17 games last year."

Wilkerson said that while he has a few things in the works pertaining to his future, right now he has nothing planned.

"I have a few things that I am working on that may come to fruition, but as of right now, I am open," Wilkerson said.

Madison Athletic Director Joe Bronkella declined to comment until the resignation is official.

Wilkerson's departure is just the latest blow for a basketball program that has not seen a coach stay longer than three years since the contract of Jim Matthews was not renewed after the 2008-09 season. The next coach will be Madison's sixth in the past 13 seasons.

Peabody passes Kelly to win Tri-Cities

H1 Unlimited

Corey Peabody steered the U-9 Pinnacle Peak Consulting to his first H1 Unlimited victory Sunday on the Columbia River in the Tri-Cities, Washington.

Shane/HomeStreet sweep prelims but run 3rd in final

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Corey Peabody passed stricken teammate J. Michael Kelly on the final lap to claim victory at the HAPO Columbia Cup in the Tri-Cities, Washington on Sunday, his first-ever win on the H1 Unlimited circuit.

Corey Peabody

Peabody, driving the U-9 Pinnacle Peak Consulting, chased Kelly for four laps in the winner-take-all final but it wasn't until a damaged wing on Kelly's U-8 Miss Tri-Cities allowed Peabody to close the gap that he was able to overtake his stablemate. Just after the start of the fifth and final lap, Peabody made his move and increased his lead throughout the lap to win with an average speed of 145.686 mph.

"We have been looking for the speed all weekend. We knew it was there, we just had to find it," said Peabody, who has finished on the podium in all three races this season. "We're just so excited. It's my first win. I don't know what to say about it."

Kelly hung on to finish second — just barely — as his damaged boat limped across the finish line just three boatlengths ahead of a charging Jimmy Shane, who made up for a bad start by almost taking second.

Shane had dominated action all weekend in the U-1 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison, taking the top qualifying spot and winning all four preliminary heats with ease. However, he found himself stuck in Lane five for the final and didn't have the start that he wanted, falling more than a roostertail behind the leaders after the first lap.

"We stayed on our timing marks," Shane told the Tri-City Herald. "We knew the others were gonna be early to push things ... I got two huge blasts of water and had to turn right."

However, Shane worked himself up through the field, first passing Andrew Tate — whose U-12 Graham Trucking broke a propeller — and then Jamie Nilsen's U-11 J&Ds to move into third. He then charged after Kelly on the final lap but needed 200 more feet to make the pass.

Nilsen ran fourth and Dave Villwock, who started the final in the trailer position, ended up fifth in the U-40 Miss Beacon Plumbing. Neither Tate nor Jimmy King in the U-3 Miss Ace Hardware finished the final.

Kelly won two preliminary heats and Tate and Nilsen won one each as the sport saw what could only be a statistical anomaly. Despite preliminary heats being randomly drawn by a fan, the final three sets of heats each featured the exact same lineups, meaning that Shane faced Peabody only once during the weekend until the final and didn't race Kelly or Tate until the final.

"I think we had a breakthrough today with Corey. Our guy is gonna be a star."

— Darrell Strong

"Our crew member Jimmy Gilbert was crunching the numbers to try to figure out what the odds of that were," said Shane of the HomeStreet team's former NASA scientist. "He wasn't able to figure it out before we went out for the last heat. So, it's safe to say that it's pretty big."

The victory capped what has been a strong season for Peabody, who opened the year as the fastest qualifier at Guntersville. First-year owner Darrell Strong, who has won two of the three races so far, said he was thrilled with his driver's performance.

"I think we had a breakthrough today with Corey," Strong told the Herald. "Our guy is gonna be a star."

Despite missing out on the win, the HomeStreet/Miss Madison team will take an 819-point lead in the National High Points standings into the final race of the season at San Diego on Sept. 17-19 as the team seeks its second-straight season championship and 10th in the past 13 seasons.

However, Kelly currently holds a 210-point lead over Shane in the Driver's Championship standings since Shane split time behind the wheel with Jeff Bernard at Guntersville allowing for the difference in points.

Madison players win Pitch, Hit & Run competition

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Junior High softball players Kyra Ayler and Kennedy Rowlett each took home first place in the Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit & Run Regional competition at Great American Ball Park in Cincinnati on Saturday.

Ayler, an eighth grader at Madison, won the Softball 13-14 Age Division while Rowlett, a seventh grader, won the Softball 11-12 Age Division. This was the third win for Rowlett, who previously claimed the title in 2018 and 2019.

The two will now see if their scores qualify for a trip to the World Series in October. The top scores nationwide will be compared with only the best getting the honor of competing in at the World Series. So far only Cincinnati and San Diego have held their competitions.

Carroll football hoping to make 60th season special

BY BOB DEMAREE

Although Carroll County High School football focuses on making every season special, that might be the case even more so in 2021 since the Panthers will celebrate the 60th anniversary of their program this year.

At Carroll's Media Day on Friday, head coach Justin Franklin, a former player with the Panthers, said he is hopeful that Carroll will make 2021 a special year for more than just the anniversary.

"We have players on this team who have been playing together a long time," said Franklin, who said his players "have been pushing themselves hard. If we stay healthy, we can be a tough team to beat."

Franklin, the Panthers' head coach since 2019, is a 1999 graduate of Carroll County, served as head coach at Trimble County from 2012-15 and as an assistant at Carroll prior to taking over after the departure of Hunter Cantwell.

David Marsh, who also previously coached football at Trimble, has moved to Carroll County this year to serve as defensive coordinator, allowing Franklin to focus more on the offense and relinquish the defensive duties. Marsh was a player for the Raiders while Franklin coached there, and went on to play in college at Georgetown, Kentucky.

"I will be building off" what Franklin has been doing, said Marsh, who noted he "will be adding bits of my own philosophy" which he said is basically to "be aggressive at the line of scrimmage, and to hustle every play."

The Panther roster has 13 seniors, but Franklin cited Aiden Aldridge and Harrison Felts as the two who have shown the most leadership in practices so far.

Felts, the quarterback, said he has been playing football since he was four years old. He moved to Carroll County after growing up in the Trimble County football program.

"He's a tremendous leader and has a cannon for an arm," said Franklin.

Aldridge is a wide receiver, but will also play some outside linebacker.

"I like to be able to play wherever I am needed for the benefit of the team," said Aldridge, who returned after a slipped disc in his back during his sophomore season put him on the sidelines. Returning in his junior year, Franklin said Aldridge "came back impressive when he got his first opportunity to play."

Carroll County will scrimmage Atherton on Aug. 13 at home and then open the season with home games against North Oldham on Aug. 20 and Henry County on Aug. 27. Carroll's first road game will be Sept. 3 when the Panthers take on Madison at Cub Field.

Felts is optimistic that it will be an enjoyable season for the Panthers. "We'll be coming out and competing every game." He said if the Panthers do that, he's optimistic that they'll do well.

SEC expansion would mean more power, wealth

BY RALPH D. RUSSO
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

Barring a dramatic change of direction, Texas and Oklahoma are moving toward taking the Red River Rivalry to the Southeastern Conference in a seismic shift that will have repercussions in college sports from coast to coast.

According to multiple reports, the first and significant formal step of the process could come as soon as Monday with the two schools informing the Big 12 they will not renew the contractual agreement that binds conference members until 2025.

The Big 12 said Sunday night its executive committee of Texas Tech President Lawrence Schovanec, Baylor President Linda Livingstone and Commissioner Bob Bowlsby held a video conference with Oklahoma President Joe Harroz and Texas President Jay Hartzell.

"The meeting was cordial, and the Executive Committee expressed a willingness to discuss proposals that would strengthen the Conference and be mutually beneficial to OU and UT, as well as the other member institutions of the Conference," Bowlsby said in a statement. "I expect that we will continue our conversations in the days ahead and we look forward to discussing thoughts, ideas and concepts that may be of shared interest and impact."

If the Big 12 can't get Oklahoma and Texas to reverse course, expect the lawyers to take over. An early departure could cost the schools well over $100 million combined to get out of that grant of rights.

But a pot of gold awaits in the SEC and having the Longhorns and Sooners linger as lame ducks doesn't have much upside for the Big 12.

There is a good chance that come kickoff of the 2022 college football season, Texas and Oklahoma will be in the Southeastern Conference.

IT JUST MEANS MORE MONEY

The SEC signed a $300 million deal with ESPN last year that gives the network rights to all SEC football games starting in 2024 and is expected to bump the conference's annual distribution to its members to about $68 million.

The Big 12 distributed $34.5 million per school recently, down over the previous year because of the pandemic.

A projection done by Navigate Research, which does data modeling for professional sports leagues and college conferences, for The Athletic last year had the annual distribution gap between the SEC and Big 12 at about $16 million per team per year in the SEC's favor by 2026.

That was under the assumption the Big 12 would still have Texas and Oklahoma.

The Big 12's next TV deal will pay substantially less without its flagship schools than the $574 million in 2026 that Navigate was projecting.

"That's a given," said former Big 12 Commissioner Chuck Neinas, who stepped in to help the conference survive the last round of realignment in the early 2010s.

Generally, TV contracts are structured so if a conference adds new members, the network's payout increases proportionally.

The addition of Texas and Oklahoma to the SEC could break from standard operating procedure. That's especially true if ESPN decides it no longer needs a partnership with the Big 12 and the SEC increases the quality and quantity of its football inventory by going to a nine-game conference schedule.

Or maybe 10.

TEXAS A&M'S REACTION

The Aggies are not thrilled about the prospect of sharing the SEC with the Longhorns, who they were happy to leave behind when they left the Big 12 in 2011.

There will be complaints from board members and politicians, but Texas A&M will not play obstructionist as the SEC tries to complete this deal.

"Whoever joins, whatever that looks like, that's what we're ready for," Texas A&M athletic director Ross Bjork told the AP on Sunday.

CFP EXPANSION

SEC Commissioner Greg Sankey was part of a four-person group, along with Big 12 Commissioner Bob Bowlsby, that worked on College Football Playoff expansion for about two years.

The plan unveiled last month calls for a 12-team field. There are steps to go before formal approval, but implementation could come as soon as 2023.

Those with a background in college sports believe it was no coincidence that Sankey was working on both CFP and SEC expansion.

"People have tried to say, 'Why now?' " former Western Athletic Conference and Sun Belt Commissioner Karl Benson said. "If there's a different structure and if the SEC going to 16 teams is going to create a different structure among its peer conferences, you need to do it before the next CFP expansion."

Farmer sparks Reds comeback for 6-5 win over Cardinals

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Tyler Stephenson hit a tiebreaking sacrifice fly in the eighth inning, rallying the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 win over the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday night.

Kyle Farmer, who also homered, led off the eighth with a single for his third hit of the game. He was safe at second on a throwing error by Giovanny Gallegos (5-3) on pinch-hitter Tucker Barnhart's potential double-play ball.

One out later, Jesse Winker walked to load the bases ahead of Stephenson.

Joey Votto also had three hits for the Reds, who shook off long home runs by Paul Goldschmidt and Harrison Bader to maintain their hold on second place in the NL Central.

Right-hander Brad Brach (1-1) pitched a perfect eighth. Right-hander Heath Hembree earned his first save, striking out the side in the ninth, including pinch-hitting pitcher Adam Wainwright for the final out. Wainwright batted because Yadier Molina had a stiff neck.

Reds 5, Cardinals 3 (Saturday) — Jesse Winker homered, doubled and drove in four runs, Luis Castillo pitched seven effective innings and the Cincinnati Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 Saturday.

Joey Votto also homered to help the Reds overcome three errors and extend their winning streak against St. Louis to six games, their longest since taking six straight in May 2003. Cincinnati swept the Cardinals in a four-game series in St. Louis June 3-6.

The Cardinals opened the eighth by scoring two runs on consecutive doubles by Paul Goldschmidt and Nolan Arenado, followed by Paul DeJong's RBI single. They loaded the bases with two outs before Sean Doolittle came on to coax pinch-hitter José Rondón into a popup to shortstop Kyle Farmer.

Heath Hembree pitched a perfect ninth for his eighth save.

Winker hit a two-run double in the first for a 2-1 lead and added insurance with a no-doubt shot deep down the right field line in the seventh. Jonathan India was aboard on a leadoff single.

Castillo (4-10) settled down to retire 11 of the last 13 batters he faced, the last on center fielder Akiyama's catch of Dylan Carlson's drive while banging into the wall in right-center with a runner on base to end the seventh. Castillo allowed four hits and one unearned run with three walks and nine strikeouts in seven innings.

BENGALS CAMP

Healthy Burrow, new faces boost optimism

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI BENGALS (4-11-1)

CAMP SITE: Cincinnati

LAST YEAR: Coach Zac Taylor's second season began with great optimism and fizzled to a close, just as his first season had in 2019. There were reasons for hope in 2020 with Heisman Trophy winner Joe Burrow taking over at quarterback. After showing exciting flashes of what could be, Burrow suffered a season-ending knee injury in Week 11. Premier running back Joe Mixon went out with a foot injury, and the offensive line was decimated. A late-season moral victory came when they upset playoff-bound Pittsburgh on "Monday Night Football" on Dec. 22, and beat Houston the next week, but the familiar problems were on display again in a season-ending pummeling by Baltimore.

IMPORTANT ADDITIONS: WR Ja'Marr Chase, OL Riley Reiff, DL Trey Hendrickson, DT Larry Ogunjobi, CB Chidobe Awuzie, CB Mike Hilton, OT Jackson Carman, DE Joseph Ossai.

IMPORTANT LOSSES: WR A.J. Green, RB Giovani Bernard, DL Geno Atkins, K Randy Bullock, OL B.J. Finney, OL Bobby Hart, DL Carl Lawson, CB William Jackson, LB Josh Bynes, CB LeShaun Sims.

CAMP NEEDS: Get Burrow back to 100% after his knee injury and rehab. Make sure Mixon can carry the load at running back after rehabbing an injured foot. Settle on an offensive line that should be much better with the additions of free agent Reiff and draftee Carman, as well as a healthy OT Jonah Williams and C Trey Hopkins. Get a defense with many new faces to mesh quickly.

KEY CAMP COMPETITIONS: Taylor said Carman, who played offensive tackle at Clemson, will compete immediately at guard, putting him in the mix with Xavier Su'a-Filo, Michael Jordan, Quinton Spain and Hakeem Adeniji. After the release of the venerable Giovani Bernard, Samaje Perine, who was re-signed, will try to establish himself as the No. 2 running back. Competition will come from Trayveon Williams, draft pick Chris Evans and undrafted free agent Pooka Williams.

EXPECTATIONS: With Burrow, Mixon and other key players healthy again and a retooled offensive line, the Bengals should be much better. WR Chase, the No. 5 overall draft pick, rejoins former LSU teammate Burrow as an explosive weapon and deep threat. Another problem area, the defensive line, was upgraded with the addition of DE Hendrickson and DT Ogunjobi. A half-dozen new assistant coaches will shake up things. Taylor got a vote of confidence from ownership after the disappointing 2020 season, but this may be his last year in charge if there isn't significant progress.

NOTICE OF REAL PROPERTY TAX SALE
Jefferson County Indiana
Beginning 10:00 AM Local Time, September 8, 2021
Courthouse
Jefferson County

Pursuant to the laws of the Indiana General Assembly, notice is hereby given that the following described property is listed for sale for delinquent taxes and/or special assessments. The county auditor and county treasurer will apply on or after 08/20/2021 for a court judgment against the tracts or real property for an amount that is not less than the amount set out below and for an order to sell the tracts or real property at public auction to the highest bidder, subject to the right of redemption. Any defense to the application for judgment must be filed with the Jefferson County Circuit Court and served on the county auditor and treasurer before 08/20/2021. The court will set a date for a hearing at least seven (7) days before the advertised date of sale and the court will determine any defenses to the application for judgment at the hearing. The county auditor and the county treasurer are entitled to receive all pleadings, motions, petitions, and other filings related to the defense to the application for judgment.

Such sale will be held on 09/08/2021 at the Courthouse and that sale will continue until all tracts and real property have been offered for sale. At the discretion of local officials, the tax sale may switch to an online format. If those measures are taking place, the public auction will be conducted as an electronic sale under IC 6-1.1-24-2(b)10 at www.zeusauction.com commencing on the same date / time listed above. All location updates will be posted at www.sriservices.com prior to the tax sale.

Property will not be sold for an amount which is less than the sum of:
(A) the delinquent taxes and special assessments on each tract or item of real property; and
(B) the taxes and special assessments on the real property that are due and payable in the year of the sale, whether or not they are delinquent; and
(C) all penalties due on the delinquencies, and
(D) an amount prescribed by the county auditor that equals the sum of:
(1) twenty-five dollars ($25) for postage and publication costs; and
(2) any other costs incurred by the county that are directly attributable to the tax sale; and
(E) any unpaid costs due under IC 6-1.1-24-2(c) from a prior tax sale.

No property listed below shall be sold if, at any time before the sale, the Total Amount for Judgment is paid in full. If the real property is sold in the tax sale, the amount required to redeem such property will be 110% of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, if redeemed not more than six (6) months after the date of sale, or 115% of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, if redeemed more than six (6) months after the date of sale, plus the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the real property plus five percent (5%) per annum interest on the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the property. All taxes and special assessments upon the property paid by the purchaser subsequent to the sale, plus five percent (5%) per annum interest on those taxes and special assessments, will also be required to be paid to redeem such property.

In addition, IC 6-1.1-25-2 (e) states the total amount required for redemption may include the following costs incurred and paid by the purchaser or the purchaser's assignee or the county before redemption: (1) The attorney's fees and cost of giving notice under IC 6-1.1-25-4.5; (2) The costs of title search or examining and update the abstract of title for the tract or item of real property. The period of redemption shall expire on Thursday, September 08, 2022 for certificates sold in the tax sale. For certificates struck to the county, the period of redemption may expire Thursday, January 06, 2022.

If the tract or item of real property is sold for an amount more than the minimum bid and the property is not redeemed, the owner of record of the property who is divested of ownership at the time the tax deed is issued may have a right to the tax sale surplus.

The Auditor and Treasurer specifically reserve the right to withhold from the sale any parcel which has been listed in error, or which otherwise becomes ineligible for sale either prior to 09/08/2021 or during the duration of the sale.

This notice of real property tax sale, and the tax sale itself are undertaken and will be conducted pursuant to the requirements of the laws of the State of Indiana which regulate the sale of land for delinquent taxes, pursuant to I.C. 6-1.1-24-1 et seq.

The County does not warrant the accuracy of the street address or common description of the property, and a misstatement in the key number or street address does not invalidate an otherwise valid sale.

Minimum bid amounts are prescribed by law and are subject to change prior to the auction date.

Pursuant to IC 6-1.1-24-3(e), property descriptions may be omitted for properties appearing on the certified list in consecutive years. A complete property list may be obtained at www.sriservices.com or in an alternative form upon request.
